

Paper City

bio

Paper City started as Moedog Darling. Now, a pop trio, Paper City blends pop song structure with an indie vibe that makes for an addicting combo.

Lead guitarist/vocalist Marisa Predisik constructs vocal melodies reminiscent of 1960's beach pop, while maintaining a fresh and modern sound.

The trio, Marisa Predisik (guitar, vocals), Aaron Archambault (bass), and David Waterman (drums), perform live in, and around, their hometown of Long Beach, California. Together they represent the preciseness found on the album, while putting a new spin on each live performance.

A Good Recipe: Marisa Predisik Talks About Paper City

Long Beach Post:

<http://www.lbpost.com/sander/6609>

"Paper City...is a natural result of maturation as an artist, and reflective of [Marisa Predisik's] commitment to a newly embraced band aesthetic. Still present are her expressive voice, expansive melodies, organic harmonies, and poignant lyrics."

Album Reviews: Paper City

The District Weekly:

"And it's a job well done: Paper City finds Predisik (and her breathy vocals and trusty ukulele) inching ever toward pop perfection, with standouts "City of the Future" and "For Me, For Us, For You" destined to loop between your ears for days on end."

Paper City: City Of The Future [Video]

FensePost:

"Perfect for the band's moniker, Paper City's video for "City Of The Future" features mixed media primarily centered around... paper. Simple songs performed on ukuleles ("Oh The Cargo"), guitars ("Paris In The Wintertime") and piano ("City Of The Future"), Paper City front-woman Marisa Predisik possess that nerdy-girl-waiting-to-be-discovered vibe. Her songwriting blends the complexities of life with the simplicity of twee."
