

Steel Foundation

Steel Foundation's unique use of the steel drum as a mainstream instrument highlights their culturally layered blend of rock, pop and world beat styles. Accomplished musicians all, Steel Foundation has performed material on the stage with local artists from international touring acts including Corina Rose (Corina Rose), Larry Young (Common Sense) and Carlos Marin, Jr. (Pato Banton and The Mystic Roots Band). Steel Foundation's infectious fun keeps the party going set after set making a Steel Foundation performance a valuable choice for public, private and family-friendly events.

All of Steel Foundation's band members write material and in February 2009 they completed production of their first promotional CD, the content of which they discussed in a ½-hour radio interview with local on-air personality Ras Charles on KKSM Radio in San Marcos. Steel Foundation is presently working on the production on their first music video, currently planned for release this fall.

Go! Baily's brings the taste and sound of Jamaica Jeff Pack, The Californian

TEMECULA Baily's in Temecula is serving up fun for the whole family with a Caribbean celebration on Reggae Sundays. The doors open at 4 p.m. and stay and enjoy non-stop live music and Caribbean food until 8 p.m. every Sunday through Sept. 26. Admission is free and open to the public.

Unwind from the week to the popular music of Jamaican origin commonly known as Reggae. Live on the courtyard stage, Reggae favorites Roots Foundation and Steel Foundation weave the free spirited strands of Calypso, rhythm and blues together. The bands will alternate weekends.

While grooving to steel drums and bass guitar, experience the flavor of Jamaica. This "taste of the islands" features a Caribbean-themed all you can eat dinner including traditional Jerk Chicken, red beans and rice, pineapple cole slaw and fried plantains. All included for $9.95

Baily's is at 28699 Old Town Front Street, in Temecula. Call 951-676-9567, e-mail chris@oldtowndining.com or visit oldtowndining.com.

Keeping the party going Tyler Blue, Santa Barbara News-Press

June 26, 2010: The Summer Solstice Parade is like a cauldron of collective energy which steadily simmers all the way up State Street. When it reaches a boiling point, it has to spill out somewhere.

The festival began on Friday as 11 different bands and dance groups brout out the early revelers who danced to the eclectic sounds until 9 p.m.

Today the music begins at noon and continues until 8 p.m. Festival director Maureen Hermanns works with executive director Claudia Bratton and the rest of their staff to bring together a diverse lineup of local talent. Several of the bands, like Area 51, are there every year. Others, like reggae band, Steel Foundation, shake things up with a fresh sound.

While grooving to the tunes and reuniting with old friends, people can choose from a wide range of food and retail vendors. A beer and wine garden is open until 7 p.m. A Children's Area featuring a stage with storytellers, musicians, juggling and more runs until 6 p.m.

Last Week's Wow: Cathryn Beeks, ListenLocalSD.com

Last Week's Wow: Huge thanks to Steel Foundation for stepping in and covering a cancellation at The Triple Crown and WOW are they good! Check them out! -- March 15, 2008
